1. retrieval

Go on Facebook and retrieve three pictures that made you smile. Think of photos that you've seen before and liked, don't just browse without knowing where you're going — it's good if you have a rough idea of where it's located. They do not have to be on your profile, they can be on a friend's profile, on a page, or on a group; they do not have to be photos on which you are, or even picture of your friends (funny pictures or memes that particularly stuck in your mind would be fine too).

The only rule is that they must have been posted at least a year ago (before 2014).

the photo was sent privately (in the messages)
I searched my inbox for the relevant Facebook notification emails
I asked someone to send me a link to it
I had a picture in mind but I can't remember where it was

I couldn't find it/it's been deleted
